WE NOMINATE

Olev Trass, a short-term Princetonian and a refugee from behind the Iron Curtain, who this past week—just three years after he started grappling with conversational English—was honored as Princeton University's ranking undergraduate scholar. At the exercises marking the opening of the "College of New Jersey's" 209th year, the 22-year old Estonian received the $500 Milbank Memorial Scholarship Prize, which is annually awarded to the senior with the highest scholastic average for all preceding university work. Trass' average in his area of specialization, Chemical Engineering, is the highest attainable at Princeton, 0.70, the equivalent of an "A-plus-plus."

The "Trass Story," parts of which are reminiscent of such television melodramas as "Foreign Intrigue," dates back to 1941 when the Nazi armies started goose-stepping into the Baltic countries. As a last-gasp gesture, just before they evacuated Estonia, the Russians deported thousands upon thousands of Estonians to Siberia. One of the victims was Trass' father, the owner of a small textile factory, whose fate remains unknown to his family. In 1944, with the fortunes of war running in the Reds' favor and with the Germans withdrawing from Estonia, Trass and his mother and brother escaped to Sweden on a small Baltic freighter that cleared for a German port but changed course in mid-passage and finally reached the Swedish coast.

Life attained a certain degree of normalcy in Sweden. Trass solved his first language difficulties and in 1951 completed his secondary education in Stockholm. Shortly thereafter—"to get just as far from the Russians as we could"—the family migrated to Canada, establishing its new home in Toronto While testing soap and margarine in a Lever Brothers laboratory in Toronto, Trass heard more and more of Princeton, largely through his relatives here, Mr. and Mrs Richard Harm. He wrote for information, struggled on his own with English, overcame visa problems with the assistance of an interested Princetonian and was admitted to the University in 1952 as a sophomore in Engineering.

Trass' adjustment to an American university was remarkably rapid but also productive of "blood, sweat and tears," for his program of study included courses in Literature, Economics and Philosophy as well as in Mathematics, Science and Engineering. He has found, for instance, that he only absorbs some 30 pages of English an hour and yet is voluntarily enrolled in one of the most demanding reading-courses in the Department of English. In stretching his dollars to the limit, he has combined scholarship aid with loans and student employment and this Fall, following a summer in a West Virginia engineering laboratory, is a Research Assistant in the Plastics Laboratory and a part-time night watchman in the University Chapel.

For distinguished achievement in the face of long, long odds; for making the most of the opportunities he himself has earned; for turning his back on the past and looking to the future with faith and determination characteristic of the Western World; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

Topics of the Town

New Nassau. As Princeton University launched its 209th year, surface appearances differed little from those on view to townspeople in many another fall. Hundreds of young men were back from summer vacations and jobs to swell the community's population; cars often buried beneath rugs and furniture rolled into town, then faded from view to conform with the three-decade old edict; and September's last weekend brought a pleasant return to the ever-appealing drama of intercollegiate football.

"Murder" In the Cemetery

Informed by a somewhat wild-eyed passerby that he had heard a cry of "murder" from Princeton Cemetery shortly after midnight Sunday, horough police found merely a traditional college prank in progress. Two freshmen had stolen the clapper from Nassau Hall's belfry, two sophomores were in process of taking it away from them.

Once they had ascertained that no violence was in progress, the police called the case closed, unconcerned with the clapper's eventual fate. The sophomores claimed the trophy, but traditionally contrary to traditional hope, Monday morning classes were held as usual.

But if outward appearances were similar to those of other years, two changes—one physical, the other designed to effect a new approach to academic policy—were an integral part of the new year. On the campus itself, a dream of more than a quarter-century was translated into fact with the opening of the $450,000 student center, the building by which Princeton locked step with many other colleges in an effort to meet the social and emotional demands of the "new" American student.

Architecturally, Princeton can claim the most unusual student center in the country. It is lodged in the "old library," which includes an octogon that was once Princeton's main reading room, then surrounded by stained glass windows and lighted by bare yellow bulbs.

The octagon is now a pleasant smooth-floored lounge, with an upper deck for reading or limited occupation. Below is a game room with ping-pong and pool tables—adjoined by a 63-fixed-set television theatre in which the unoccupied undergraduate may contemplate the marvels of current television on a 27-inch screen.

The other major unit of the center was formed from the old "north stacks" of the Pyne Library. The area is now filled with a 250-seat restaurant, with kitchen service at one end and a battery of vending machines at the other.

A room for the undergraduate council, rest rooms and areas still to be put to use are included in the center, which may in time become the focal point to freshmen and sophomores that the Prospect Avenue eating clubs are to upper classmen.

Another new feature on the University scene is the first Council of the Humanities, which has named eight teacher-scholars as Fellows of the Council.

Named as fellows from the Princeton faculty were Dr. Oliver Strunk, Dr. Arthur Szathmary, Dr. Blanchard W. Bates, Dr. Francis B. Simkins, Dr. John W. Ward and Dr. Fred S. Light. Bernard F. McGuiness of Oxford and Dr. Richard T. Burgi of Yale were named as junior fellows.

some good news about cancer

APPROXIMATELY one in four of the 158,000 lives lost each year in the United States from cancer could be saved if the knowledge already in existence could be made available to all—assuming that the knowledge is acted upon promptly. Here are the danger signals:

1. Any lump or thickening, especially of the breast.
2. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any of the body openings.
3. Any sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent indigestion.
5. Sudden changes in the form or growth of a mole or wart.
6. Hoarseness persisting for two or three weeks.
7. Regional pain.

Only in the early stages can cancer be successfully arrested. At the appearance of suspicious symptoms see your doctor at once. For prompt, expert prescription service, call on us.

The Council of Humanities is directed by a 12-member committee which includes one representative from the nine departments of humanities at Princeton and one each from the natural sciences, social sciences and engineering.

The council is being underwritten at present by a five-year grant from the Carnegie Corporation, while the University seeks some $7,000,000 in capital funds to place it on a permanent basis.

"Hey, Frosh!" The 782 members of Princeton's freshman class, sporting orange and black "beanies" with white name cards as college reconvened this week, hail from 44 states, three territories and ten foreign countries, according to statistics released by the University's Office of Admissions.

New York took top honors as the state with the largest contingent in the class: 180 freshmen make their home in the Empire State. New Jersey is sending 126 students, Pennsylvania 88, Illinois 51, and Ohio 38. China, the Philippines, Roumania and Ecuador are among the foreign countries represented.

Members of the Class of 1958 come from 383 different schools, nearly the same distribution as in last year's freshman class. Scholastic records reveal that 614 freshmen finished in the first quarter of their class and 122 in the second quarter. The class includes 102 presidents of their class or heads of senior councils, while 218 were members of student government boards.

Crackdown on Peddlers. The Borough has begun enforcement of its ordinance requiring licensing of peddlers, it was reported this week by Robert F. Mooney, Borough Clerk.

Street vendors, particularly numerous on football Saturdays, are required by the ordinance to buy a license to sell on public streets and places of one day. The fee is $25.

Veterans must also required to obtain a peddler's license, but are exempt from any fee if they have a New Jersey veteran's license issued by their county clerk. Borough licenses may be obtained at the clerk's office from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday.

New Mail Schedules. Postmaster Charles F. Murray has announced that Princeton residents will enjoy faster mail deliveries as a result of a new early morning arrival at 4:15 a.m. Special delivery service and parcel post will also be speeded up through the new mail schedules now in effect.

The new first-arrival time replaces the previous 6 a.m. hour and will enable the post office to dispatch carriers on an earlier schedule, with particular benefit to residents on the end of their respective routes. In addition, the closing time of the last departure has been set back from 7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Another change in the schedule is the earlier 4 a.m. deadline for

It's New to Us

A Time to Plant. Evergreen shrubs, bulbs, roses, grass seed and many perennials do best if they are planted in late September and early October. Members of the Stony Brook Garden Club, who know this, have arranged a collection of quality stock which they are offering for sale at the Autumn Flower Show next Wednesday at McCarter Theatre.

Stony Brook's members have bought at wholesale prices and they are passing on this saving (plus the results of their own work on the plants) to Flower Show customers.

You'll find iris from Mill Race Farm at Clinton, N. J., tulips and narcissus from Muellers in New Hope. Alanwold Nurseries has provided small potted evergreen shrubs — leucothoe, cotoneaster, pieris japonica and various boxes.

If you collect rare columbine and delphinium, you'll be interested in the specimens from Tom Barry's Greenhouses. Famous pansies come from Pitzonka in Bristol, Pennsylvania, and hybrid tea roses from Morristown.

Connoisseurs of house plants will want several of the exceptional ones from Rudolph's at Essex Fells and from Roehrs & Co., Rutherford. Grass seed, especially blended for local soils, and home tested by members of Stony Brook Club will also be offered for sale.

Mrs. Joseph Elgin, telephone 4385, will accept advance orders—and of course, you can save by ordering in quantity. Proceeds of the Flower Show will benefit the Princeton Hospital.

115 to the Gallon. That's what they say about the Lambretta, an Italian runabout manufactured in Milan and now available in Princeton at Lahiere's on Spring Street. The Lambretta seats two, and if you want a demonstration ride, stop at Lahiere's and ask for scooter.

It's a fine little extra car—for one. Looks like a streamlined shopping, errands (but not for car-pools!) or just for fun. With its amazingly economical gas consumption, it could take you all the way to New York on a couple of milk bottles full of gas.

Cruising speed of the Lambretta is 35 miles an hour, and it can get up to 50. It's got a five-horsepower motor with three-speed transmission. If you're worried about bumps, it has front suspension with progressive-acting ring spring—sounds impressive, and if you find out what it means, let us know. (For further details, see advertisement, page 11.)

Nordic Whimsy. The Scandinavians seem to be growing giddier by the week. Last issue, we had a Schnapps bottle that plays "How Dry I Am." This week we present a Danish cluck bottle, so called because it goes "cluck-cluck-cluck" when it's poured. The Princeton Gourmet (180 Nassau) showed us one.

In case you have any doubts about what to put in it, the bottle comes in two sizes, quart and fifth. An amateur bartender we know has asked whether each "cluck" represents an ounce, but we have not tested it in our own laboratory.

Sweden's offering this week is a collection of leering little wooden trolls, with matted hair that looks like a cocoanut hide. They are two and one-half inches high with jointed arms and legs that make them nimble enough to hang over the edge of your high-

(For additional information on the show, see "It's New to Us," page 3, and advertisements on pages 11 and 23.)

Season Starts at YWCA. An "open house" held in conjunction with its fall membership meeting has been set for next Thursday, September 30, by the YWCA. It will begin at 8 p.m. at the 4 Green Street center.

Following a brief business meeting, program leaders will discuss the various courses to be offered. All women of the community are invited to attend and to register for activities of interest to them.

"Portrait of Lucinda," a one-act skit directed by Mrs. Collie Herron, will be presented. Members of the cast will include Miss Verna Douglas, Mrs. E. Harris Harbison, Miss Doris McBride, Mrs. James K. Quay, Mrs. Jan Rajchman, Mrs. William H. Scheide, Miss Mathilde Stettler and Miss Zelma Stringfield.

The YW will again offer its popular "Mother's Morning Out" program, complete with a supervised nursery. Each Tuesday morning from 10 to 12, starting October 5, mothers may have instruction in rhythmic dancing, painting and cooking.

Instruction will also be offered during the fall in French, Italian and English. Other courses will include "Fix It Yourself" (home repairs); "Fix Yourself" (group discussions on personal security and the ideals of Christianity); and "Help Fix the World" (a workshop organized to consider the problems of the United Nations, following a trip to the UN next Friday, October 1.)

Social clubs for Y-Teens and young adults and swimming at the Trenton YWCA are other activities offered. Full details on all opportunities may be obtained from the YWCA, 202 Nassau Street (1239-W.)

Seminary Reopens. The Princeton Theological Seminary will enter its 143rd academic year Tuesday when President John A. Mackay delivers the opening address at 7:45 p.m. in the Seminary's Miller Chapel.

Classes will start Wednesday morning after registration is completed on Monday and Tuesday. New students will arrive this Friday for an orientation course.

Hun Names Four to Faculty. The Hun School began its 41st academic year this week with an enrollment of 91 and four new members of the faculty. Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, headmaster, announced the enrollment figures and faculty appointments.

Edward B. Bamman, Jr., a native Princetonian and a member of the Princeton Class of 1942, will instruct physics and chemistry at Hun. Mr. Bamman, who received an M.A. degree from Columbia in 1946, comes to Hun from DeVeaux School, Niagara

Westminster Reconvenes. Two new faculty members and 105 new students came to the Westminster Choir College campus this week as the college started its fall semester. Nearly every state and ten foreign countries are represented in the student body.

Dr. John F. Williamson, founder and president of the college, announced that Dr. Hans F Hofmann and Dr John M. Kelly have been appointed to the faculty. Dr. Hofmann, who completed his doctorate of theology at the University of Zurich, will divide his time between teaching psychology at Westminster and doing graduate work at the Princeton Theological Seminary.

Poe Article Reprinted. An article written by John P. Poe, president of the First National Bank, for the magazine "New Jersey Banker" has been reprinted in the national "Bankers Monthly."

The article, written at the close of Mr. Poe's term as 1953-54 president of the New Jersey Bankers Association, is entitled "The Positive Approach." It urges an intelligent, positive attitude in dealing with applications for credit, rather than negativism.

Mr. Poe's position was solidly endorsed by the "Bankers Monthly" in its lead editorial for the current issue. The magazine commented:

"Some measure of acceptance of the philosophy it contains is basic to any kind of human progress, and the extent to which it is accepted and applied by bankers in general will determine more largely than any other one factor the progress and permanence of individual banks and the whole institution of chartered banking."

P.T.A. Reception. An opportunity for Valley Road School parents to meet their children's teachers will be provided Tuesday at the Princeton Township Parent-Teacher Association's first meeting of the year in the school.

Mrs. R. B. Dinsmore, hospitality chairman, will head the welcoming committee, and Mrs. Paul M. Freeman will be in charge of refreshments. The meeting is being planned by room mothers and representatives of the Teachers Association.

Jewish Center Plans. The Princeton Jewish Center will open its year with a reception and lawn party for members and nonmembers this Sunday from 3 to 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Haines, 175 Elm Road.

Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Norman Denard, second vice-president; Mrs. Manuel Greenblatt, membership chairman; and Mrs. Benjamin Miller,

Sturhahn Honored

A citation was presented to Herbert C. Sturhahan at the fall board meeting of the Princeton Red Cross Chapter, singling him out for his efforts on behalf of the chapter over the past decade.

The resolution noted that Mr. Sturhahn served as chairman of the 1947, '48 and '52 fund drives; chapter chairman in 1953-54, vice-chairman in 1946 and as special gifts chairman for the 1945 fund drive.

Mr. Sturhahn's inauguration of the one day campaign in Princeton was cited, with the notation that the national Red Cross has termed it outstanding and that it had influenced the Greek Red Cross Society in its fund drives. The citation was signed by Harold E. Zarker, current chairman, and Mrs. Alice A. Nelson, secretary.

No Objection

Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, speaking Sunday on the national radio program "Meet the Press," repeated his statement that he has no objection to the retention of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer as director of the Institute for Advanced Study here.

Admiral Strauss is also chairman of the Institute's board. He voted with the AEC majority which condemned the Princeton physicist as a security risk, but said on Sunday that security clearance is not a criterion for the post of director at the Institute.

IT'S NEW TO US

ball glass. They are dressed in painted suits of livid green and pink, and they sell themselves for $1 each.

Companion offerings from Sweden are one-inch wooden mushrooms, red and white polka dotted, with a slit in the top for place cards. A troll would look just right, perched on top of one. They are four for a dollar.

Kettle Cove, a good name in fine foods, now sends to The Gourmet a shelf full of sauces and condiments. We like the idea of Chocolate Elegante, a concentrate with rum, cointreau or creme de menthe. There's a mint sauce with bits of the herb in suspension, fruit slices in syrup and a grapefruit marmalade laced with bourbon that should wake up anyone's morning toast.

A pecan cake from Texas comes in a can ready to be sliced. Like a fruit cake, but nuttier, and rich as can be. Try it with vanilla ice cream or whipped cream for a special dessert.

A new apron, gathered onto a wide black band, is full and wide enough to be a wrap-around skirt. It's made of denim in unusual shades: salmon, rose and cinnamon brown, or aqua, violet and grey. A "Bib and Tucker" is an apron and towel set, dyed vivid pink or desert turquoise, with a full-blown white rose in the center.

Serve canapes on a small round plate whose ceramic center is overlaid with fish designs in the current modern manner. Comes in natural wood or black. Tammis Keefe's bar towels are piscine, too, in tropical fish colors.

Elegance. Even the good wool fall suit has an air about it, in the collection at Mary Gill's, 230 Nassau. A grey flannel skirt for example, has a straight severe cut and a simple matching vest, but over it goes a boxy top jacket in strong black, white and grey tweed with Chinese red velvet lining. A red velvet ascot ties it up. ($69.95).

Sage green jersey makes the top of another suit jacket with collar and front bands of green and yellow tweed. There is a tweed skirt, too, and a seven-eighths tweed coat. All three pieces are $69.95.

A collarless coat in charcoal, grey and white has charcoal jersey bands at neck and sleeves. It goes over a charcoal jersey dress with round collar. The ensemble: $85.

Another coat in snowflake tweed follows the princess line; still another in good orange red, hangs casually in boyish lines with back belt and double breasted front.

A cocktail dress is cut from ivory silk brocade trimmed at its wide low neckline with pearls and rhinestones. It has flaring hip pockets. ($49.95). Black taffeta makes another cocktail dress. It has a tunic skirt pattern and a narrow shoulder band for a neckline. A woman who prefers conservative cocktail dresses would like a black mat jersey artfully draped and folded, with long sleeves, a modest V-neck and full, gathered skirt.

The "ensemble" appears in several styles and colors. We liked a black wool jersey dress whose short collared bolero is black with royal blue high-lights. Another good one is purple with three-quarter sleeve-on dress and jacket, and purple velvet trim. An Oxford wool has short sleeves, round neck and jacket with notched stand-up collar. The blackness of the jacket is relieved with streaks of yellow.

Knit two-piece dresses show ribbed skirts and tops that are like short-sleeved sweaters. Some have V-necks, others are round-collared cardigans. These come in cheerful shades of red, blue and aqua.

To top it all, there are Schiaparelli hats at $17.50 and $19.50. One is a black velvet skimmer with shallow crown and narrow brim. We liked another made of Ocelle—looks like a fuzzy velour. For dressing up, Mary Gill has cocktail hats that are all feathers. And if you'd like to step down in price, there are hats in this show beginning at $6.95.

Kilts skirl all over the place these days. Mary Gill's, at $16.95, have buckles and clasp in the traditional manner. She has almost every tartan there is, and can order ones that aren't in stock. If you're not accustomed to tuning your life to a bagpipe, you may have a full-length skirt in any tartan. These are $17.95.

100 Proof. The Gaelic touch showed again when we visited The English Shop at 33 Palmer Square West and found a stack of Tam O'Shanters, hand-knit in Scotland from Shetland yarn. These furry fellows are done in strong shades of red, green, yellow and royal blue with one or two colors predominating in each Tam. Pompom sits on top. Lots of ladies buy these for themselves.

Tartan vests are from England, by Welch Margetson. Other vests are plain colors with notched collars, or corduroy in spectacular red and black checks.

Built into the wall, a BROAN ELECTRIC HEATER is out of the way, takes up no valuable space, yet is always ready to provide a flow of warm air to every part of the room. BIRTHDAY COAT: Lisa Ely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland T. Ely of 117 Mercer Street, shares her fourth birthday with Lillian Bellows Children's Shop by modeling a water-repellant coat lined with snow white orlon pile at the store. Mrs. Ely purchased Lisa's layette at Bellow's when the store first opened four years ago.

Highlanders, Shetlands and Harris Tweeds the racks at The English Shop hold over 200 sports jackets. We liked unusual weaves like the black stripes on ruddy brown, or the black and brown mix and the black with regular pattern on grey flakes.

Shetland sweaters are done with crew or V-necks, in many shades of greens and greys, even a blue. And a multitude of colors and patterns in the new challis tie and belt sets. The belts are leather backed.

Blend. Good cooks who have winced at the price of a blender may now have one for about $15.95. It's the new Handy Hot blender at Farr's, 138 Nassau, good for one quart of light batter, sauces, soups, ice cream desserts and malteds.

From England, the Goddard silver polish people have sent a set of silver, chrome and brass polishes, each with its own polishing cloth. Another polish, this one designed for furniture, but actually an all-purpose polish, is Saint's Satin Wax, for books, leather bags, marble, lacquer and papier mache, as well as wood. Comes in a flat tin for $1.49.

Fleas will resent, and pets be grateful for a Flea Scat pad for dog (or cat). Fleas are said to die inside the bag, accommodating little fellows. The bag is also filled with something to make your dog smell better. You may buy refills when necessary.

A bed to put it in is a washable plaid plastic dog basket that comes in several sizes. The plastic looks like those insulated picnic bags, and it can be scrubbed to a polish.

Mansion or Tank?

Governor Meyner has raised an interesting point about the restoration of "Morven" to give New Jersey an executive mansion.

The governor reported that one tank for the U.S. Army costs $250,000. Dr. Joseph E. McLean of Random Road, state commissioner of economic development, has stated that restoration of "Morven" will cost approximately $240,000.

So the governor is interested in finding out whether the people of New Jersey think the two-century old residence with its long traditions is as worthwhile as one tank.

News of the Theatres

Planning. As is evidenced by the questionnaire to the right, Isadora Bennett and Richard Pleasant, the new managing directors of the McCarter, have in mind a concept of a lively professional theatre here in Princeton.

The ups and downs of the house since its curtain first went up in 1928 have left most local theatre-goers with the idea that the McCarter is the site of Triangle, concerts and an occasional road show.

Revived Local Theatre. Interest in Princeton and surrounding areas is a Bennett and Pleasant goal, and also a means of attracting good productions on a regular basis.

Road companies are a dime a dozen (many of them worth as much) and eager for bookings, but as recent years show readily, Princeton doesn't turn out for inferior attractions, with New York theatre so close at hand.

Thus the new directors are seeking to plan a full, varied season and at the same time stick to top producers and first-rank companies. Indications are that steady bookings will have to wait until the early part of next year.

A number of shows are now being negotiated, so that the only production announced to date is the forthcoming premiere of "The Traveling Lady" (October 8 and 9). The Ballet Theatre is likely to follow and other entertainments will be announced shortly.

MURRAY THEATRE

"Summer and Smoke," opening production of the Princeton Community Players' new season, will run through this Saturday evening at the Murray Theatre on the University Campus. Tickets are available through the box office (tel. 3539) and the University Store (tel. 3333).

A dress rehearsal look indicated that the Players are to be thanked for making available the Tennessee Williams play. However, the understandable difficulties of amateur production are likely to require a good deal of tolerance on the part of most spectators.

It's entirely possible that a number of performances may have ironed out some of the awkwardness, and some of the difficulties may be ascribed basically to Mr. Williams.

The Players captured the needed mood on occasion, however, chiefly through Betty Frohling's better scenes. Miss Frohling deserves considerable credit for a successful characterization of Alma, the frustrated minister's daughter.

Douglas Dougherty in the co-starring role of the young doctor made this corner frankly uncomfortable much of the time. Uneven support was obtained from the remainder of the cast, which included Mary Young, Virginia Martinez, Jim Hopkins, Irving Van Zandt, Peggy Schmertz, Russell Carter, Frank Schmertz, Phoebe Gulick, Lucille Frohling,

"Lady" Shifted

"The Traveling Lady," first offering scheduled at McCarter Theatre for the new season, will be here for evening performances on Friday and Saturday, October 8 and 9, with a matinee on Saturday. The production will be in a week later than previously announced.

Kim Stanley will be in the title role for the production by the Playwright's Company. Jack Lord and Lonny Chapman will also be featured in the new Horton Foote play about modern Texas and the search by a mother and her little daughter for their husband and father.

THIS IS A LETTER OF INVITATION WILL YOU GIVE US YOUR ANSWERS?

The McCarter Theatre of Princeton University Season 1954-1955 (October-May)

Are you interested in the living theatre? Your answers below will help to bring you more and better shows.

Princeton University invites you to share its McCarter Theatre — where you can have the fun of being First Nighters (sometimes seeing new plays even before New Yorkers); catch up on hits; and see as wide a variety of ballet and other attractions as you indicate that you would like.

The McCarter Theatre is the newest in the East and one of the finest and the town of Princeton—beautiful, historic—is noted, among other things for its fine inns and taverns.

Even if you live in a neighboring county, you can drive to the theatre comfortably, dine at your leisure (and reasonably), have a pleasant or exciting evening of theatre—and get home before midnight. For most of you it takes half the time of a trip to New York—and for everyone the total cost is cut in two. A party of four can attend the McCarter for what it would cost a couple in the city. Then the theatre becomes, as it should be, a way of gracious living rather than a campaign against the odds of the ticket system, trains, taxis, parking, tunnels, bridges, trips and hurry.

The McCarter can mount a show handsomely (only the Metropolitan Opera stage and one other in New York are larger) and every one of its 1077 seats is perfect. There are no boxes or peanut gallery. But, from the standpoint of the producer, with heavy costs augmented by travel, that is a small theatre. To attract the most desirable shows, every one of those 1077 seats must be filled.

We believe it is possible to have a more lively—and far more varied—program of theatre events than the McCarter has ever had. But we need your help and your advice. We need to know your preferences, the hours and prices which will be most comfortable. We have listed some important questions below. Will you take the trouble to check or write in your answers and any suggestions and send them to us? It will help us to make the McCarter more than ever your theatre. It will help us to bring the most desirable attractions. In time, it will make Princeton a theatre-center for all the neighboring communities and counties.

We invite you to join us for the 1954-55 Season at the McCarter.

We invite you to join us in this important neighborhood project.

ISADORA BENNETT and RICHARD PLEASANT, Managing Directors.

THE McCARTER THEATRE OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY.

Music in Princeton

The Coming Season. The local musical season, which will range from opera to a harpsichord concert, and from the Cleveland Symphony to a jazz concert, is scheduled to open in a little over two weeks.

The first concert of the year will be given by the soprano Irmgard Seefried on Wednesday, October 13, in McCarter Theatre. Her program of lieder and art songs will be the first in Series Two of the Princeton University Concerts.

Series One will open with the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam on Wednesday, November 24. William Masselos, pianist; the Cleveland Orchestra and the American Chamber Opera Society will complete Series One in the first part of 1955.

A total of five concerts are included in Series Two. The New Music String Quartet will replace the New York Piano Quartet, announced last spring, in the final program. Full details of both concert series and subscription ticket information will be found in the advertisement on this page.

The Princeton University Concerts are endowed by the Philena Fobes Memorial Fund and the Jessie Peabody Memorial Fund. A committee directs the two series on a non-profit basis, providing the community with a major part of its musical season at considerably below cost.

Members of the committee include Mrs. James Barnes, Mrs. Harold W. Dodds, Mrs. McClintock Ellis, Mrs. Bradford B. Locke, Mrs. Walter Lowrie, Mrs. McKim Norton, Mrs. Charles G. Osgood, Mrs. Roy D. Welch, Mrs. Ernest G. Wever, Mrs. Wilbur M. Young, Edward T. Cone, Ernest T. DeWald, Elliot Forbes, Carroll C. Pratt, David Shoup and Edward Hubler, chairman.

New Program. Nicholas Harsanyi, Weldon Wilber and Ann Luckey of Princeton are among the five musicians named by Princeton University to give private lessons to students under a new program at the University.

More Princeton students take part in extra-curricular musical organizations per capita than at most universities throughout the country. The private lessons being inaugurated this fall are designed to meet the needs of the active musical program.

Professor Arthur Mendel, chairman of the department of music, has announced that the musicians giving instruction will be Edward Steuerman, piano; Mr. Harsanyi, violin and viola; Mr. Wilber, brass instruments; George M. Jones, woodwinds, and Miss Luckey, singing.

Mr. Harsanyi is the conductor of both the Princeton Symphony Orchestra and the University Orchestra, as well as head of the instrumental department at Westminster Choir College.

Mr. Wilber regularly plays first horn in the concerts of the Princeton Symphony. Miss Luckey is professor of music at Cornell and a member of the advisory council of the department of music at Princeton.

Mr. Stuerman is a member of the faculties of the Philadelphia Conservatory and the Julliard School of Music in New York. He is a noted performer of contemporary music, particularly the works of Arnold Schoenberg. Mr. Jones, clarinetist with the Rochester Smyphony, will be a member of the Rutgers faculty this year.

William Parris and William Duryee.

Robert Turner (sets) and Peter Van Zandt (lighting) mastered the technical difficulties of putting the standard Williams four-in-one set on the small Murray stage, while Frank Lewin's incidental music was an asset. Pat Crawford's direction was sound, given the circumstances.

Mr. Williams has stated his theme that an honest knowledge of the fundamentals of life must precede valid morality in other plays. "Summer and Smoke" is still, however, an interesting work of theatre to have on hand at the Murray.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

The French comedy "Dame Nature" is the current tenant at the Bucks County Playhouse across the river in New Hope. The production continues nightly through Saturday evening with a matinee on closing day.

Louis Beachner and Nancy Marshall are starred in the Andre Birabeau comedy about two youngsters who find themselves about to become parents. The play made its Broadway appearance in 1939 with Montgomery Clift and Lois Hall in the leads.

Magda Gabor, eldest member of the well-known husband-collecting firm, arrives Monday evening for a week at the barn playhouse in the title role of the comedy "Bernadine" by Mary ("Harvey") Chase.

The production will inaugurate the new fall matinee time of 2 p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays at the Bucks Playhouse.

Miss Gabor will take the part of an intriguing woman who is idolized by a gang of American teen-agers in a small western town. The group operates from the local drug store and its activities are imaginatively captured by the author.

John Lahne and Robert Caspar will be featured, while Bucks producer Michael Ellis will be included in the cast as a "wolf." Aaron Frankel has directed the production.

Rutgers' Hopes High. One factor that has not been present since 1948 will be a definite part of the picture on Saturday when Rutgers and Princeton open the 1954 football season in Palmer Stadium at 2 o'clock. The contest, incidentally, marks the 85th anniversary of the start of the gridiron sport among the nation's colleges.

To be crystal clear about it, for the first time since they last trimmed the Tigers six years ago, the Scarlet forces and their backers feel they have a good chance of winning. The optimism has spread sufficiently so that good weather is expected to bring out a larger-than-usual crowd of around 18,000 for the first game of the fall.

It is Rutgers' backfield strength that is furnishing the primary reason for the bright outlook at New Brunswick. The big gun of the visitors' attack is Co-Captain Angelo Iannucci, a hard-running fullback whom the Raritan fans consider ranks with the best the visitors have had in a number of years. Speed comes from halfbacks Bobby Redman and Steve Johnson, particularly the latter, while John Fennell is the T-quarterback.

Small but adept Ron Mastrolia, Bill Catyas, Ron Kelley and Jack Laverty form a second backfield on which Coach Harvey Harman will call. The visitors' line is anchored by Co-Captain By O'Hearn, a guard converted to center. Rutgers is stronger in the center of its forward wall and slightly less experienced at the tackles and ends. The first team in particular is expected to give Princeton a full afternoon, with the Tigers' strength in reserves figured to be better than the visitors'.

The Princeton Lineup. While spring practice helped settle Rutgers' starting lineup in definite fashion, Princeton's continues to be flexible. It is quite doubtful, for example, that the 11 men who are in for Saturday's kickoff will all start against Columbia next week. Further switches may take place before the Penn game as the Tigers search for their best combination.

Barring midweek injury, it is the backfield that appears pretty well set. Princeton is likely to begin with senior Bob Russell, wingback; sophomore John Futhey, quarterback; junior Dick Martin, fullback; and junior Royce Flippin, tailback.

A second quartet will consist of either junior Bill Agnew or classmate Jack Kraus, wingback; sophomore Remington Ball, quarterback; junior Sid Pinch, fullback; senior Dick Frye, tailback. Other ball carriers who are likely to see action include Fred Hovde and John Watson, quarterbacks; Dick Thompson, fullback; Dick Emery and Jan Brechnitz, tailbacks. The latter has shown flashes of unanticipated ability in the open field.

Up front, the starting ends will probably be Ben Spinelli, a 1953 varsity reserve, and Joe Grotto, letterwinner as a tackle in his sophomore season. A 207-lb. sophomore, Fred "Rusty" Melges has come along well to get a tentative starting assignment at left tackle, with the veteran Pete Milano opposite him. With the latter at 205, the Tigers have more weight there than in many seasons; if ability matches it, a big question-mark will get the proper answer.

While Charlie Caldwell will not platoon, should he choose to send in a second line as a unit it would very possibly consist of Mike Stewart and Joe RiRenzo, ends; Bob Aldrich and Mike Bowman, tackles; George Peck and Sharp, guards; and John Thompson at center.

Stewart and Bowman are

Streaks Clash

Two of the nation's longest consecutive scoring streaks go on the line Saturday. Rutgers has not been blanked in 78 games, a string running back to 1944, while the Tigers were last shut out by Penn in November, 1945. Since then, they have scored on 72 opponents in a row.

Both teams are expected to continue their scoring this weekend. They rank second and third in the nation to Oklahoma, whose string is now 84.

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

sophmores, the others all juniors, while in the first line, there are only three seniors (Henn, Herbruck, Milano.) If Bill Agnew displaces Bob Russell as the starting wingback, eight of the 11 starters would have one or two more years here, indicating that next season may be better than the one about to open.

Fordham scrimmaged the Tigers on a slippery University Field Saturday, the Rams taking rather complete control of the occasion at the outset. They shoved over two quick touchdowns and had a third (on a 90-yard pass play) called back for an offside. At the end of the half, they led, two touchdowns to one.

With the reserves of both squads in action, the Tigers battled back by the end of the regulation game to take a 5-2 lead in touchdowns. Flippin saw only limited action because of a minor ankle sprain but was a pleasure to watch the few times he ran with the ball. Fordham was 4-5 a year ago, has a couple of fine running backs but overall may not be as good as any team the Tigers are to meet this season with the exception of Colgate.

Things to Watch For. The all-around play of Flippin, who last year ranked among the nation's top 12 backs in total offense. His pass completion average of 58.1% (50 for 86) was third best in the country last fall, but his broken-field running is probably his most picturesque quality. The Montclair junior is also a better-than-average punter and a standout on defense.

The potential ability of sophomore John Futhey. He understandably has much to learn but blocks well and and will give Princeton more of a running threat at quarterback than it has had in some years.

The speed of sophomore Charlie Sharp, who is one of the fastest men on the squad despite his 205 pounds. His future as a lineman may be particularly bright.

The overall ability of the Princeton line. If Futhey can come along to block and fuse the Tiger attack, success this season will hinge largely on what can be accomplished up front, especially at tackle and end.

The linebacking of Captain John Henn. He broke in as a linebacker on the defensive platoon and gained much added experience last year.

The outcome of the game itself. Having barely edged a presumably weaker Rutgers outfit, 9-7, a year ago, the Tigers' immediate future will be somewhat brighter if they trim the Scarlet's 1954 model. Any evaluation of the forthcoming season must, however, take strongly into account the fact that Columbia, Penn, Brown, Cornell and Yale all figure to be markedly better than they were a year ago.

PHS Meets Leonardo. The Little Tigers of Princeton High will take the field this Friday at 3 p.m. against Leonardo High to launch the football season in Princeton.

The powerful shore school is a clear favorite over PHS, having lost only to Asbury Park (Group IV champions) over a two and a half season span. Leonardo triumphed by 24-13 a year ago in its first encounter with Princeton High.

Joe Jingoli, genial coach of the Blue and White, is again faced with the task of molding a team as he goes through a rugged schedule. He was able to do so last fall, when PHS snapped back from a 1-7 record in 1952 to capture the Mercer County championship.

As was the case a year ago, the major problem is that of replacing key starters. Of last year's 24 lettermen, an even dozen have departed, with seven starters among them. Names like Harry Burton, Tom Murray, Bob Taylor, Pete Johnson and Stan Clark will be missing from this year's array.

On the other hand, the 1954 Little Tigers are dominated by seniors, many of them with considerable experience. Jingoli's tentative attacking line-up for the Leonardo game lists junior Marv Trotman as the only starter who is not due to be graduated next June.

In the line, letterman Carl Brown is a fixture at right end, while Allen Graham, up from the jayvees, and Lee Ammerman are competing for the left end slot.

Big Tigers

Princeton this season has more players who top 200 pounds than any year since the war. For example, this combination of starters and first-line reserves could very possibly see action simultaneously:

Mike Stewart (195) and Joe Di Renzo (200), ends; Rusty Melges (207) and Mike Bowman (212), tackles; Wendell Inhoffer (205) and Charlie Sharp (205), guards; John Thompson (200), center. The average is 204.

"Thank You, Mr. Edison"!
Says Reddy Kilowatt

From the first practical incandescent lamp which was invented by Thomas A. Edison 75 years ago at Menlo Park in New Jersey have come the modern electric generating stations which make dependable, low-cost electricity available to you 24 hours a day.

This year Public Service joins with the entire electrical industry in celebrating Light's Diamond Jubilee.

If today's efficient generating stations had not been developed, it would have been impossible to bring electric service to so many millions of people at such low cost. Edison built the first central service power plant on Pearl Street, New York, and from it have sprung the hundreds of coal and oil burning steam generating stations throughout the country.

Public Service is continuing to expand its generating and distribution system to stay well ahead of your demands for electric service. Recently, plans were announced to construct a new generating station which will cost about $100,000,000 and will be in operation in approximately three years. This demonstrates that Public Service and the entire electric industry are still on the march, begun by the advent of the incandescent lamp which is being celebrated during Light's Diamond Jubilee.

Yes, it's true — thanks to Mr. Edison, electricity does so much ... costs so little!

Write for a copy of the new book, "The Genie in the Amber Bar", which tells of the development of the electric industry. Write Public Service Electric and Gas Co., 80 Park Place, Newark 1, New Jersey.

Behind them are Jim Campbell and Tom Artin. Another end candidate, Brad Dinsmore, was injured in the season's first scrimmage.

The seasoned pair of Roger O'Kane and Bill Rodefeld will run at left tackle and guard, respectively. Robert Zinsman and Martin Caples currently the top understudies. Co-captain Bob Richey will be the starter at center, backed up by John Smith and Pete Smyth.

Jim Thompson, who leads the Little Tigers together with Richey, will start at right tackle, with Frank DeMeglia his chief replacement. Frank Kessler, biggest man on the squad at 230 plus, will be at guard. Bob Buxton and sophomore Martin Hafemaier are behind Kessler.

Backfield Prospects. Jingoli has named a starting backfield of Dick Wood Jr., at quarterback; Marv Trotman, right half; Bob Montgomery, left half, and Al Terry, fullback. Possibly the coaches' most immediate obstacle is that of turning this group into a unified combination.

Wood has played all over the backfield, except in the signal-calling slot, while Trotman, the speed merchant junior, has had mainly defensive experience. Terry, on the other hand, has been a mainstay of the PHS ground attack for the past two seasons.

The replacement problem in the backfield is also serious. Little Bob Davison has been working out at both quarterback and wingback, while Dick Knowles is doubling up as a substitute tailback and quarterback. Ivan Riddick is a sophomore candidate at left half, and another soph, Nick Kovalakides, is behind Terry and Hoyt Ellis at fullback.

Stuart Reed, who played for PHS in 1952, has returned to school and will fit into the picture as a defensive guard. Sophomore prospects also include John Perego, Hal Phox, Bob Huffman, Bill Edwards, David Potts, Wayne Birch, Bill Dilatush and Larry Perks.

Because of limited pre-season practice time, the task of starting to pick a defensive alignment was held up until last Saturday's scrimmage with Freehold. The coaching staff has been stressing offensive speed and the development of replacements.

The eight-game schedule arranged by athletic director George Tindall will be a tough one, but the Little Tigers should hold their own, barring, of course, the familiar "injuries to key players."

Coach Jingoli and his assistants, Dick Wood and Gerry Groninger, have a big squad of 66 varsity and junior varsity players to work with. Tony Borzok is in charge of the 33 freshman candidates. All told, 175 out of the school's 500 boys are out for inter-scholastic sports this fall.

October Plans. The Bucks Playhouse, which about now leaves the ranks of summer theatres to become a "fall theatre," has announced the titles of its four October shows. When the theatre finishes a November of all-time hit shows, it will have been open for a solid 26 weeks.

The "Fall Festival" will perform the valuable function of presenting four new plays during October. The first will be Arnold Sundgaard's comedy about baseball, "Kilgo Run", with Eileen Heckart and Conrad Janis. The production is due October 4.

Starting October 11, Sidney Blackmer and Carol Stone will co-star in "Head of the House," a new melodrama by John T. Chapman. Another new comedy, "Millicent's Castle," by Frederic Morton will come in October 18. It will be directed by Alfred Drake in New York for two weeks prior to its New Hope opening.

Dorothy Stickney will appear in the final production of the month, "The Shoemaker's Children," opening October 25. The new Henry and Phoebe Ephron comedy is designed for eventual Broadway production.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Egyptian (Sept. 23 - 28) should prove astoundingly satisfying for those who judge spectacles by weight, length, production costs, Darryl F. Zanuck's personal touch, CinemaScope, color, stars, etc. Edward Purdom is in the title role of the story taken from the Mika Walteri novel. The gigantic cast includes Jean Simmons, Victor Mature, Gene Tierney Michael Wilding, Bella Darvi and Peter Ustinov.

The stream of events roaring across the screen defy rational outline. Anyway, an awful lot of things happen to The Egyptian before the 140-minute film comes to an end. The picture plays for a week at regular prices, but showings have been changed to 2:30, 6:30 and 9:10 on weekdays, continuous from 1:30 on Sunday.

Seven Brides for Seven Brothers (Sept. 29, 30-Oct. 1, 2) shows the MGM musical technique at its lavish, polished best. Many songs, lots of dances staged by Michael Kidd, Technicolor, CinemaScope and other assets are attached to good-natured story set on an Oregon farm in 1850. The title tells the story, more or less. Howard Keel and Jane Powell are chief among the brothers and brides.

THE GARDEN

The Long Wait (Sept. 24, 25) features Mickey Spillane brutality in full measure. The rough melodrama is full of beatings and gun play as an amnessia victim (Anthony Quinn)) tangles with mobsters, a pack of beautiful blondes (headed by Peggy Castle) in an effort to beat a murder rap. Charles Coburn is the man behind the racketeers.

The Pickwick Papers (Sept. 27, 28, 29)) is a warm, rambling, generally funny and gently satirical adaption of the Charles Dickens classic. The producers have kept the episodic touch and the concentration on a gallery of Dickensian Englishmen. The adventures of the four Pickwick Club members, mainly with Mr. Jingles, form the core of the picture. Marvelous sets, costumes, mannerisms and acting by a cast that includes James Hayter, Nigel Patrick, James Donald, Kathleen Harrison, Hermione Gingold, Donald Wolfit and many others.

Men of the Fighting Lady (Sept. 30, Oct. 1, 2) draws part of its title and much of its spirit from a famous World War II documentary film. It combines two stories about the Korean War, one of them by James A. Michener. Excellent combat film clips of exciting jet warfare action are a major highlight. Well-acted by Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon, Louis Calhern, Keenan Wynn, Dewey Martin and Frank Lovejoy.
